The Political Situation.

CHICAGO, August 24.—The political ey, getting their crops in, earning ity—and the reports also that as many which also mean prosperity. ions of voters as possible, especially republican voters, are having a very good time of it financially. But do not allow themselves to be lulled into any feeling of false security by this. They have been looking from he drop of the hat, and that, according to all reports, is the exact condi-tion in the East. The Republican leaders believe that they will win. but they are going to work hard and harder to bring about that consummation: and hey prop se to take no chances. One of the best advertisements ever written simply said: No time to write advertisements-too busy selling hats. That about expresses the present It is equally evident that the Republican leaders, orators, writers and workers of various kinds are going to chase no rainbows, that is because they are going to take no chances. You do not hear those who really know their political busine-s saying that this or that is going to be a "paramount issue." They know better than to make any such predic-tions. It seems to them that special tissues are likely to have to be discuss-ed: expansion, or imperialism, if the Democrats choose to call it that, free bemocrats choose to the Chinese War. It is likely to be almost buything, but whatever it is these same Republican leaders, orators, writers and other workers are going to be ready. They are not going to be put on the defensive. They have been in power, they have had responsibilities. They made promises four years ago. They have fulfilled those promises. They do not believe that the opposition party, no matter how harsh its criticisms now,

If expansion or "imperialism" is the issue, let the two platforms be compared. Bryan Bryan ctually promises nothing that the epublicans are not now performing. He says, to be sure, that he would convene Congress and establish a protectorate over the Philippines. He square enough to mention that of a standing army that we are now maintaining, and to which he seems to object so strenuously. So, with the silver issue, he and all his followers will have a chance to explain whether Bryan, if elected, would not immediately put the country on a silver basis by paying in silver, for he is permitted

It is about the platform of the gallant McCalla, who, if I remember correctly, said, after the commanders Allies hesitated about advancing: , said, after the commanders of the

And he started, he and his handful of marines and sailors. They were repulsed, but they are getting, there again, and it is believed that the American people are applauding. It is the exact truth to say that Mr.

Bryan's speech of acceptance was a sappointment here, greater to the Republican managers, possibly, than to the Democrats. He really dealt in platitudes so generously that there is nothing tangible in it attact or pick to pieces. Besides the platitudes there are, of course, innumerable high flown periods and no end of misstatements of fact, to say nothing of stilted and thestnutty philosophy, so-called, apparent in the whole thing. Such as it s, however, the Bryan speech of acme goes on. It is believed that oters everywhere—who will, of ourse, have opportunity to read it Juid. everywhere-will pick it to pieces for mselves, themselves asking questions at the end of each sentence; asking what Mr. Bryan would actually do under the circumstances, what he feally means, what of it if it is so, etc. Moreover it is a cowardly speech, mitting all reference to silver and the overturn of the Supreme Court and the ppression of the negroes now activein operation everywhere in the uth, stultifying in this last particular the whole force of the Bryan argument "consent of the governed." ch as it is, however, the speech will made to do good service-better in the part of Republicans, propably, han on the part of Democrats.

THE YELLOW PERILS.

To tee Editor of the Bee:

the Yellow peril seems to be the all prevailing scare of a few modern writers on the subject of the "negro's con tact with the caucasion." Some of them charge God with being grossly unfair in the creation of mankind. That is to say, he favored certain crea tures by making them better in every respect than others; by breathing into their nostrils purer and better breath and by injecting into their veins purer and better blood. All nonsensical and and blasphemous.

Of one flesh and blood, God created man in h.s own image. That there s but one species of mankind has been proven beyond all doubt by the greatest Ethnologist and Naturalist the world ever knew. If I could possibly believe such falsities to be true, I would go and commit suicide at once

The truth about the whole matter is that God created no race superior to the other imevery particular. The fact that He made one white and the other black is no argument that one was made better than the others. of this talk that mixing the blood of the races tends to deteriate the usefulness of either is futile. A careful study of the conclusions reached by the leading Ethnologist and Naturalist of the world, would change the belief or pretended belief, of those who have recently written and published warnings on the subject of the great dangers which threaten the white race on acthis would take about the same kind count of contact with the negro. Some of these writers have been wicked enough even to charge the Good Lord with having been unfair in His creation as to have made one race better than another without the slightest reason for doing such an unjust thing. What sensible person on earth believes any such nonsence? Some fools go so far as to say, that the Lord began to make the white man about 12 o'clock in the day, and that He took so much pains in making him (the white man) that He did not finish until a few minutes of seven in the evering, just about dusk, at that time He began to make the Negro and did not finish him until about midnight, and, being in a great hurry to get through before the next day, was compelled to slight the black man in his work. And hence the inferiority of the Negro race. I assert as a Liuism, that from every rational standpoint, the indications tend to snow that within the next hundred years, to see a pure blooded Cau-casian or pure blooded Congo on this continent, will be a great curiosity. I suggest Turanian hue.

of fearful privation made his way through swamp and forest to Sherman's lines.

When the war ended he went to Saginaw and engaged in the lumber business. He prospered exceedingly, and to-day is one of the richest of Michigan lumbermen

He has held a number of public offices-those of alderman, state senator and congressman. He also served with the rank of colonel on Gov. Alger's staff. While in congress his speech on the Mc-Kirley bill attracted much attention. For his own city Col. Bliss has labored zealously, in season and out. He has been a wide-awake, public-spirited citizen, and Saginaw owes much to his devoted labors in her behalf. He has endowed churches, schools and colleges out of his abundance, and his generous hand has aided every prominent public charity, while it has relieved at the same time, in unostentatious and often unsuspected ways, many private needs.

He is a stalwart republican, and as taking life easy. vice president of the National League of Republican Clubs has worked with his usual energy for the advancement of the party's principles.

REMEY IN COMMAND

Chief of the American Naval Forces in China Is an Officer Distinguished for Bravery.

Admiral George C. Remey, chief of the American naval forces in Chinese waters, was appointed commander of the Asiatic station early in March last. At that time everybody was pleased with the selection of Admiral Remey for this important post. Its jurisdic-tion extends over the Philippines and Guam, the coast of China, and, in short, over all territory in which the United States has an interest, lying west of the Sandwich islands. The admiral is described by his associates as able, polite, generous, hospitable, modest, a thorough sailor and a man of mature judgment. He was selected by Admiral Walker to be the first commander of the Charleston. That boat was cruising the Pacific at the time that trouble was brewing with Chili. Remey was chosen because of his superior capabilities as a commander and strategist and his well-known discretion in emergencies. In the subsequent chase of the Itata by the Charleston Admiral Remey displayed keen judgment both as a sailor and a diplomat. He now treads the deck of his second flagship. His admiral's flag flew from the old Lancaster in the war with Spain.

As Seen by the Chinese. This is how a Chinese writer describes New Zealanders in a Chinese paper: "They live months without eating a mouthful of rice; they eat bullocks and sheep in enormous quantities with knives and prongs. Health Officer Woodward is mak ing many improvements in his office. It is not wise to change health officers at every change of administration. The present health officer is a genial gentleman, and the Commissioners made no mis take when they reappointed him.

There is a movement on foct among the people to do away with Emancipation Day parades. They are useless and unnecessary. Money that is collected go into the pockets of money sharks. It is hoped that the white people will cease giving money to irresponsible parties.

HEADSMEN IN CHINA.

They Wear a Grewsome Symbol of office Which Inspires Awe in All Who Behold It.

The Chinese executioner's ring of office is made of silver curiously wrought and embossed. Of all the many methods adopted by the Chinese to end the life of a criminal decapitation is considered the most ignominious. If a Celestial be hanged his soul has a chance of journeying over the "Golden Bridge" to Heaven; but when he is beheaded he is lost for all eternity, and for him

A Chinese execution is a most impressive and at the same time grewsome sight. The criminals are made to kneel down with their hands tied behind their backs, and their pigtails are either held in front of them by one or the assistant executioners or are coiled on the top of the head, thus leaving the neck bare for the sword. This sword is a long, single-edged blade, slightly curved like a scimiter, and with an enormous long handle which the executioner grips with both hands.

The criminals are placed on their knees in a semicircle, and the executioner, starting at one end of the line, with a slight movement of the wrist somewhat similar to that employed in "putting" at golf, slices their heads off one after the other. There is no swinging the sword, no taking two strokes; all is done neatly and expeditiously, and, to all intents and purposes, painlessly, so far as the criminal is con-

American Consul General at Shanghat Rises to the Situation in the Orient-The Right Man in the Right Pince.

John Goodnow, American consul general at Shanghai, China, used to go to school, sell wood and coal, bess a baseball team, manage political conventions and do many other things in Minneapolis. His most sanguine friends of those days never dreamed he would win national, even international, reputation for skill and efficiency as a foreign representative of his government, but those who knew him best never doubted his ability to grapple with almost any emen

When United States Minister Conger was bottled up in Peking with other ministers, Consul General Goodnow became the ranking representa-tive of this nation in China. There can be no doubt that he has risen to the occasion.

Press dispatches from Washington to New York and other newspapers label his services "invaluable." say the president and cabinet "have been particularly impressed by his comprehensive grasp of the situation and its easily overlooked but essentially important details, by the uniform accuracy and promptness of his

He is tall rather short but not notice thin without being scrawny-just or-Minary. His voice is smooth and even pitched rather high, and with qualities which, although indescribable, make it unlik any other voice you ever heard. He speaks in a drawl that is not quite a draw', and his tones can be either rasping or caressing at will. He is inconspicuously neutral tinted, pale of face without being either sallow or unhealtlily white, and his hair is nearly the color of bleached rye straw. He usual y dresses in the same neutral tints. But when you take a second and long look at Goodnow you discover that the some what irregular features of his long, lean face are strong and almost fine. There is confident aggressiveness in the nose and iron in the jaw. Above these features are a pair of large, deep set, c.ear gray eyes, and above them an arching skull with room for more than an ordinary set of brains.

Goodnow is now 42 years old. He was born in Greensburg, Ind., and came to Minn apolis with his parents when 18 years old. Three years later he was graduated from the University of Minnesota. For two years thereafter he was chemist of the state board of health. Then he went into the wood and coal business with a partner-Goodnow & Lawther was the firm name -and continued in that, with side ventures into baseball and other things, almost up to the time he was appoin ed consul general at Shanghai. In Northern cities all such roots are originated by the sub-stratum and are discouraged and peremptorily quelled by respectable citizens. It was the inordinate deviltry of low white people which produced the mob and the respectable, lawabiding citizens, who abhor bruteforce and mobrule, who put a stop to it.

The simple truth; is that the friends. riots in Chicago and New York city were not "anti-negro riots" at all. but merely manifestations of anarchy and misrule which are being stimulated by the unholy example which is being set by the Southern

It was ar parent that the Southern press is desirous of impressing the public that the riots in Chicago and New York were similar to that of New Orleans, from the fact that the three riots are usually referred to together, under the designation of "anti-negro riots"

An analysis, however, of the New Orleans riot will readily reveal two very important facts. In the first place, in the other two instances the mob consisted of the lowest order of citizens-in Chicago of the anarchistic and in New York of the 'thug' element-while in New Orleans, while the mob may have originated among the "poor white trash," it was winked at, encouraged, and participated in by the so-called aristocrats and best people of the city.

In the second place, the fact that the riot was general, and not local, as well as protracted, indicates that it was "anti-negro" and not only a "thug" demonstrated merely.

Another fact is revealed in the attempt of the Southern press to link the three riots under the same title of "anti-negro riots." In their shameless, lawlessness, and highhanded treachery of disfranchisement, mobrule, and riot, they are seeking justification behind the pretext that the Negro is undesiral ble and the object of contempt, hatred, and bru'e force of the masses at the North as well as at the South.

But the scheme is too transpar ent, and will only provoke the ridicule, if not the contempt of both sentation in Congress and the exe upon the art of accumulating wealth of the lawabiding masses of the cutive departments, and which has than any of the other candidates in North.

How a Mother Acts When Asked to Give Her Daughter in Marriage.

Mrs. Hudson describes graphically what she saw and heard in a Mormon household during a significant visit from the elders of the church. Below

Three men were ushered into the room. One was tall and of strong, The child is a fragile, pretty little well-marked features and dignified thing, almost a baby still in speech presence. The others were stout and and demeanor, but the influence she florid and rather nervous in manner, brothers apparently.

Without waiting for a formal introduction, one of these motioned inconsequently toward me and said, "Is she of the Lord's people?"

The woman offered them chairs with a slight inclination of the head, that might have been taken either for answer or for an invitation to be seated Was she afraid? I could not tell The men paid no attention to the invitation for the moment and ignored my presence. They had come upon urgent and important business, they announced, and would state it at once. It was their duty to bear a message to her, one that specially concerned

"Yes," said the tall and solemn el der, "it is indeed nothing less than a revelation received by the head of the church last night. It concerns both you and your daughter."

"My daughter!" gasped the woman in scarcely audible tones, and I saw one hand grasp the back of a chairconvulstvely.

"Your daughter who has now grown to womanhood," continued the elder, "and owes her allegiance to the church."

"What is the revelation?" the woman forced her drawn lips to ask.

"Through the grace of the all wise Father it has been revealed to his disciple, Brigham Young, that your daughter, Clarisse, should become the third wife of Elder W-, here present with us."

An awful silence ensued, and then a convulsive movement in the woman's throat, as if her voice refused to utter a sound, attracted the attention of all, and the men bowed their heads that they might not see.

Ranged along the wall in a solemn row sat the brother of the bridegroom, his mother, his daughter and the mother of the bride. Clarisse's mother was but the ghost of herself of yesterday; then strong and erect and content: now trembling in her chair as if she would again fall to the floor, her appealing eyes unheeded, for her daughter had been placed so that she could not see her mother.

Almost as quickly as the company was seated—no time being permitted for scenes, that were disliked by the head of the church—the voice of Brigham Young rang out loud and confident. Addressing the first wife, he said: "Are you willing to give this woman to your husband to be his lawful wife for time and for all eternity? If you are you will signify it by placing her right hand within the left hand of your husband." The broken, wretched wife reached across the altar, and lifting the delicate hand of the girl with her own work-stiffened fingers laid it in the oad outstretched band. Thus was the plural marriage consecrated and the holy institution of Christian wedlock desecrated, in Christian America.

Long afterward I knew that I had witnessed one of the tragedies in what was known among the Mormons as the Reformation and among the Gentiles as the Reign of Terror.-Lippincott's Magazine.

Napoleon and the Press.

"When I returned from Elba," Napoleon is quoted as saving, in the April Century, "I found, among other papers of the Bourbons, an account of six thousand francs paid monthly to the editors of the "Times,' besides taking a hundred numbers monthly, and I had an offer from them to write for me for payment. I had offers from the editors of several English newspapers to write for me, even during the time of war, previous to my going to Elba. and to insert news and everything else I wished, and that money would be taken to send them to France. I did not do it. I was wrong, however; I ought to have accepted their offers, and then my name would not have been held in such odium in England as it was. This they said themselves to me. For in the end these newspapers formed the public opinion, and always will do. I was very wrong; I see it now."

Cromwell as an Idol

"It was not until 1645," says Mr. Morley in the April Century, "that Cromwell had begun to stand out clear in the popular imagination, alike of friends and foes, as a leader of men. He was now the idol of his troops. He prayed and preached among them; he played uncouth practical jokes with them; he was not above a snowball match against them; he was a brisk, energetic, skilful soldier, and he was an invincible commander. In Parliament he made himself felt, as having the art of hitting the right debating-nail upon the head. The Saints had an instinct that he was their man. and they could not trust him to stand by them when the day of trial came. A good commander of horse, say the experts, is as rare as a good commander-in-chief, he needs so rare a union of prudence with impetuosity."

British Boy Duke Now Is Ruler of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha.

How He Came to Succeed to the Crown of His Uncle, the Late Duke of Edinburgh-Wales Waived His Rights.

It is owing to the fact that the duke of Connaught and his only son, Prince Arthur, waived their rights of succession to the throne of Saxe-Coburg that the young duke of Albany, son of Prince Leopold, who was the most delicate of all Queen Victoria's children, now succeeds as sovereign duke of the two German duchies in ques-

In order to understand how an English prince, who is likewise a British peer, comes to succeed to the crown of one of the numerous independent states of central Europe comprised in the federation known as the German empire, it is necessary to recall the fact that Queen Victoria's husband was the younger of the two sons of the duke of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha, Ernest I. The elder of these two sons, Ernest II., died a few years ago without issue, his crown therefore devolving on sons of his younger brother, Albert, consort of Queen Victoria, and who had preceded him. The English constitution will not permit a foreign crown to be held simultaneously with that of Great Britain, and the constitution of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha is likewise opposed to a foreign ruler becoming sovereign of the two duchies. The heir apparent of the British crown can be titular sovereign of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha until he ascends the throne of Great Britain, but even in that case it is stipulated by the Coburg constitution that he should appoint a viceroy or stadtholder to administer the sovereignty of the duchy, it being regarded as inadmissible that the heir apparent to a foreign throne should actually exercise the duties of rulership in a duchy.

(By Agreement He Has Become Duke of

In order to avoid all these difficulties, says the Chicago Tribune, the prince of Wales some time before the death of his uncle, Duke Ernest of Saxe-Coburg, waived his own rights and those of his son and son's sons to the throne of Saxe-Coburg. His abandonment was not absolute but conditional. True, he renounced his own rights and those of his children, but only to his younger brothers and to their male descendants. In the event of their dying without issue or without ascending the throne of Coburg and Gotha, the crown of these two duchies does not pass to the other members of the house of Coburg, as has been stated, but reverts to the prince of Wales or rather to his son and grandsons.

When the prince of Wales waived his rights to the throne of Coburg and Gotha he did so in favor of a second brother, Alfred, the sailor duke of Edinburgh, who, on the death of their uncle, Ernest, succeeded to the throne of Coburg and Gotha. Duke Alfred had an only son bearing his name, who, broken in mind and body by dissipation, into which he had been led while doing military service at Berlin, committed suicide a couple of years ago, a few days after the celebration of his parents' silver wedding. The necessity of selecting an heir to the ducal throne then became apparent, and Duke Alfred's younger brother, Arthur, duke of Connaught, Queen Victoria's soldier son, as next in line, was gazetted as crown prince, but when the duke of Connaught discovered that it was expected that he should transfer his abode from England to Germany and sever his connection with the British army, which he hopes one day to command, he waived his claims and those of his son to the young Prince Leopold, only son of his deceased younger brother, the duke of Albany.

The people of Coburg agreed to his succession, but insisted on special arrangements being made for his guardianship and for the regency in the event of his succession during his minority. According to the terms of these arrangements it is Duke Alfred's son-in-law, the prince of Hohenlohe-Langenberg, son of the viceroy of Alsace-Lorraine, who becomes regent of the duchies until the young duke of Albany becomes of age, a couple of years hence, when he will find himself at the head of a small sovereignty, but in the possession of private estates worth considerable over $500,000 a year. Eight months ago he was a penniless schoolboy at Eton, looked upon by the royal family in England in the light of a dependent and a poor relation; to-day, through the death of an uncle, through the suicide of a cousin, and the withdrawal of another uncle and cousin, he finds himself a full-fledged reigning sovereign.

OZONO!

King of Hair Dressings.

WHAT IS OZONO?

A preparation prepared solely and distinctly to improve the condition of the hair of the negro race. Not a worthless, offensive, obnoxious, greasy many injurious nostrums, but a delicately perfumed unguent, beautiful to look upon; made to adorn the lady, polish the gentleman, benefit youth, and gladden old as OZONO straightens knotty, nappy, kinky, refractory hair. OZONO does this alone. No hot irons are necessary; no plastering down with grease. OZONO ladvidually straightens, without any outside assistance. It will cause the hair to grow long and straight, soft and fine, and beautiful as an April morn. It will cure all itching, burning, running, humillating Scalp Diseases, Dandred the hair to grow long and straight, soft and fine, and beautiful as an April morn. It will cure all itching, burning, running, humillating Scalp Diseases, Dandred Tetter, Scurf, and Eczema. Itch cannot live after OZONO has been applied. It is as pure as the dew-drop, beautiful as the morn, and harmless as the rippling was in the babbling brook. Cleanliness is next to Godliness; filth is a crime. If your hair is short and harsh and kinky; if your scalp is covered with scurf and as druff, or itch, or eczema, it is doubtless your favit alone. If your little ones' heads are a mass of crusty, scalv, flaky scurf, teeming with germs and microbes, that invisible to the naked eye, but which are sapping the life from the hair and destroying it forever, and you allow this state to go on, it is a crime. It is your place to this—a duty you owe to yourself, to your child, to your Maker. OZONO is your remedy. OZONO will positively and permanently remove all the disease and straighten and beautify the hair, making it silky and glossy and black as the raven's wing. OZONO, as compared with other hair remedies, stands as high as a mountain peak, fair as the lily, and glorious as the sun. OZONO is King. The price is 50c. a box. It requires about four boxes to complete the treatment.

OUR GRAND OFFER

Write to us at once, enclosing the small sum of ONE DOLLAR, and we will immediately forward to you four large boxes of OZONO. We will also send poone large bottle of ELECTRIC SKIN REFINER, which makes rough skin soft and brightens the blackest skin, making it several shades lighter. Now, there much fraud practiced with face bleaches. Understand, we do not advertise this bleach to make one white. God alone can accomplish this, and it would be mine lous. Unpin your faith from frauds. We assert that our Refiner will soften rough skin and brighten black skin, but it can do no more. Take our advice; don't feel with any bleach that is advertised to make you white; it is more apt to poison you. We will also include one fancy jar of ELECTRICAL SKIN FOOD, which is sure remedy for all Skin Eruptions, Pimples, Black Heads, Liver Spots, and all Skin Diseases. It will remove Wrinkles, Scars, Facial Blemishes, and will positive take out Small-Pox Pits. This is saying a great deal, but it is true. It makes the old look young and the young look younger. And, lastly, to prove our liberally we will add a one-pint package of ANTI-ODOR. This remedy removes all smells and odors arising from the human body. Its uses are too numerous to mention ship all orders same day goods are received.

We wish to state that we are a thoroughly reliable firm, having many thousand dollars in our business. We refer to the editor of this paper, or to any business house in Richmond. Our remedies and our business is founded on the altar of truth. Write your name and address plainly.

Confessions of a Young Man Away from His Mother.

How a Professional Ball Player Conveyed the Pleasing Impression That He Was a Simon-Pure Rube from Jayville.

"It isn't always the simon-pure Rube from the farm that gives amusing exhibitions of greenness in large cities," remarked the much-traveled ball player to a Detroit Free Press | line county farmer, to show how to reporter. "I'll never forget how ut terly lost I felt when I stepped off the train at the big Union depot, St. Louis. Well, at first I was almost inclined to abandon my promising career in the National league and back-track it to the minor league from which I had been bought. I nerved myself for the ordeal, however, and went to one of the big hotels, where I expected to find the manager. When I had introduced myself, he said, in the most cold-blooded manner imaginable:

"'Oh, you're the young fellow we bought, eh?" "'Yes, sir,' I modestly replied. hardly knew how to reply to his next question; I didn't know but what it was a 'feeler' thrown out to test my habits. The question was: "'Have a drink?'

"'Well,' I hesitatingly replied, 'I never drink anything stronger than beer in my business,' "'That's all right. Stick to beer and you'll always have a good eye, was the short reply.

"He took some kind of green stuff himself. Well, perhaps I wasn't nervous that first day. No, the spectators did not cause this feeling-the players were responsible. I knew that every eye was upon the 'new man,' and that every apparent defect and good point would be commented upon and criticised freely. Fifty times that day I wished I was back on the sand lots. Luck was with me, however, and I played a wonderful

Being a ball player, and realizing that the average business life of the professional is quite limited, I am trying to extend my career by a strict observance of the laws of health. I am an early riser and I believe in the beforebreakfast cold water bath. The second morning in New York I arose as usual and began to prepare for my customary rub-down. There was some requisite lacking, and I rang, as I supposed, for one of the hotel attaches. In a few minutes there was a genvine panic in that hotel. All the downtown fire engines were dashing to the scene, and the cry of 'Fire!' resounded through the corridors of the big building with alarming distinctness. Guests were frantically running about the hallways in scant attire and many of them were scrambling for the fire escapes. I guess no one in the building was more frightened than I -was. couldn't move. My feet seemed glued to the floor and I was standing in an attitude of speechless terror right near the bell I had rung when, the firemen having been unable to lo-cate any signs of fire, the head clerk appeared. He was white with rage. Looking suspiciously at me, he demanded: "'Did you ring that bell?" "'I rang some bell,' I stammered; I wanted to call the porter to fix my bath.'

"'Well, you blamed chump-didn't you see that sign there?" "I glanced at a placard over the bell and there in large type was

Kansas Farmer Rents Them Out to Neighbors for Use in Destroying Their Grasshoppers.

Necessity has made the Kansas farmer so energetic and enterprising that lack of rain, dryness of soil and grasshoppers-the bane of the existence of the pioneer Kansas farmer-have no terrors for the farmer of When an adequate rainfall seemed to guarantee good crops to the farmer of 15 years ago he still ran the risk of having them partially or completely destroyed by grasshoppers.

DEATH TO GRASSHOPPERS

exterminate grasshoppers and to make money at the same time. He raised a flock of 1,000 turkeys and rents them for $25 a day.

Mr. Finch states that the grasshoppers have been so numerous in his neighborhood this summer as to do considerable damage to all crops. He has a drove of 1,000 young turkeys, and he soon discovered that his poultry was much more than a match for the "hoppers." The turkeys destroyed the "hoppers" almost as fast as they could light on his premises and before they had time to work any destruction

Presently Mr. Finch's neighbors noticed that his fields continued green and luxuriant while others were bar ren in spots, and they investigated. When they found out the secret a few of the enterprising farmers began to negotiate for the use of the flock, Mr. Finch proceeded on the theory that 100 turkeys were as valuable as a farm hand, and accordingly fixed a rental of $2.50 per day for each 100 turkeys. The entire flock is in demand and Mr. Finch derives a revenue of $25 per day on his investment. Thus the old-time method of raising or buying feed on which to raise turkeys has been superseded by the new one of making your neighbors pay for the privilege of feeding them for you.

Deplorable Conditions Brought On by Overwork and Worry Over His Wife's Death-List of Farces He Has Written.

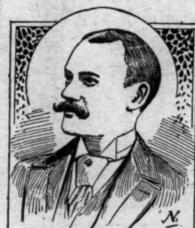

Charles H. Hoyt, the playwright and theatrical manager, is now in an asylum for the insane at Hartford, Conn., where his partner, Frank McKee, made application before the probate court to have him adjudged insane and his commitment made permanent.

Mr. Hoyt was taken to Hartford from his house in Manchester, N. H. He has been under the care of Drs. G. M. Graham and Dana, New York alienists, the former of whom accompanied him to Hartford. Upon their arrival he was examined by Dr. W. L. Lawton and Dr. G. C. Segur, of Hart-

Mr. Hoyt's friends trace his breakdown directly to the loss of his wife, Caroline Miskel. Since her death in October, 1898, he is said to have changed rapidly, brooding over his sorrow, and growing exceedinly morbid. As a relief he turned again to literary work and wrecked his health by overwork. Several months spent in Florida resulted in his regaining his bodily strength to some extent, but Scalp his mental condition was still posatisfactory. The succeeding five years he spent as dramatic and music critic and editorial writer on that paper, when his success in playwriting induced him to give up journalism and devote himself wholly to the writing and production of

His first work—written while on the Post—was a sk called "Gifford's Luck." This ha ome success and was soon follow by "A Bunch of Keys," the success of which will be well remembered. "A Parlor Match," played by Evans and Hoey up to the death of the latter, a period of 12 years, was the next in order, and it seems should have established the young playwright in the favor of managers. But it did not, for he was unable to secure a producer for his next play, "A Rag Baby." After taking the farce from one manager to another without success, Mr. Hoyt determined to put it on himself, and with Charles Thomas, his first partner, and Manager Eugene Tompkins, who finally consented to take a third interest, "A Rag Baby" was launched. The result was another great success, and with that Mr. Hoyt resigned his position on the Post, and has since given his entire attention to play-writing and theatrical management.

After "A Rag Baby" followed with wonderful rapidity "A Tin Soldier," "A Hole in the Ground," "A Midnight Bell," "A Brass Monkey," "A Texas Steer," "A Temperance Town," "A Black Sheep," "A Trip to Chinatown," "A Milk-White Flag," "A Contented Woman," "A Stranger in New York," "A Day and a Night in New York," and, finally, "A Dog in the Manger."

The greatest success of these was "A Trip to Chinatown," which ran 656 consecutive performances at Hoyt's theater, now the Madison Square, in New York. Mr. Hoyt was twice a member of the New Hampshire legislature and a democratic candidate for speaker. In 1887 Mr. Hoyt married Flora Walsh, who was known to play-goers as the "Bossy" of "A Texas Steet." She died in 1893, and in 1894 he marered one of the beauties of the Amerwhile arrangements were being made them was very strong, and after her down.

HON. ROGER WOLCOTT.

Eminent New Englander Succeeds Ambassador Draper as Our Representative at Rome.

Roger Wolcott, who has accepted the Italian embassy in succession to Ambassador Draper, of Massachusetts, resigned, was formerly governor Massachusetts and is a distinguished New England citizen. He is a Harvard man and a graduate of law, but has been very little in practice owing to his vast estate, which has required almost all of his time to manage. Mr. Wolcott's family is one of the strong TUROPEAN PLAN: ROOMS ONE DOLLAR old houses of New England. Wolcotts the declaration of independence. The Pr distaff side of Mr. Wolcott's family is almost equally famous. His wife is a direct descendant of the Prescott who commanded the Yankee forces at Bunker Hill. The new ambassador has taken a keen interest in local and state politics. He was elected several years ago to the common council of Boston and sei ed three terms in that body. Then he spread his wings for a higher flight and was chosen to represent his The Richmi nd Transfer Co. district in the legislature. In this capacity he likewise served three terms and was afterward elected lieutenant governor. Gov. Greenhalge died while in office and Mr. Wolcott took his place. His administration was acceptable to Massachusetts voters, who returned him by election to the office of chief magistracy. Mr. Welcott is now in Europe.
